EXPERIENCE OF PEOPLE.

Throwing Light on the Problem, How ong Should One Know Folks Bei Making Friends of Them?

Making Friends of Them?

In a recent home circle conversation the writer asked the question; How long and well should one know a person before committing himself to confidential friendship? The answers, as wasto be expected, were as different as the natures of those who made them.

"I can judge a man tolerably well at sight," said an impetuous New Englander, not yet familiar with metropolitan ways. "If he has an honest eye and a good face, is not marked with a runmy nose, and talks sensibly, I should not be afraid to ask him to my home. He might turn out hadly some time, and I might be ashamed of having known him, but that exampt he helped. One sever known the whole of mybody's life history."

There was an ominens panes after this effusive statement. It was not pleasant to express less generous sentiments, but the countenance of the auditors showed that they could not agree with him.

"You will find that you cannot go on that rule here," said one who has lived longer in this city. "I used to feel just that way and acted accordingly, but now I make it a rule never to invite an acquaintance to call until I have known him favorably at least three months. If I am introduced to a stranger and like his appearance, I try to be cordial to him during that time. Not hearing anything against him, or seeing anything wrong about him, I then give him an invitation.

"I was awfully taken in once by one of the most charming fellows in the word. He looked like a prince and talked like an angel, but he is in Canada now and a bank down town mourns for him and several thousand dollars which he stole. Since then I have not been hasty in making friends."

"Three months is not nearly long enough," said a bright, chatty lady, the sister of a well known clergyman. "Ben (her brother) and I have to meet all sorts of people in our church work, and we always wait a year. Most of our friends did so with us and they were right, judging by our experiences.

"One of the nicest and daintiest of little women moved into the flat next to ours soon after brother was called here, and I told him I meant to call on her. I didn't so just then because I had to go home and take care of mother during a

"One day after I had got back I happened to pass her door while she was saying good bye to a friend, and I heard more slar; words in one minute than in all my life before. You can guess that I decided not to make her acquaintance."

"You were perfectly right in saying that a year is not too long," and another lady, pich "g up the conversational thread. "When we lived on — street we had for near neighbors as nice a looking couple as ever were seen. The man went to his business every morning, and the woman was singing over her work all day long. My husband thought they were nice, and so did I, but we learned better before long.

"One night they had a supper party that began at 10 o'clock and ended at daybreak. Everyone must have been drunk, for they sang and shouted so that nobody else in the house could get a wink of aleep. After that we heard them soolding each other every night, and at last something exploded like a cannon cracker between them. Both commenced divorce proceedings and the wife was turned out of the house because she couldn't nay her proceedings and the wife was turned out of the house because she couldn't pay her rent and the husband would not."

"No doubt all of you are right from the point of view of personal interest," said the unsophisticated New Englander, who has not yet realized that personal inter-est rules the best of us in an inordinate measure. "You have had bad luck, but most people are good and well disposed. Now, I've just made some new disposed. Now, I've just made some new friends in a very queer way, and I mean to stick by them until I find they are not all right.

"Last night when I was going up the stairs of my boarding house, in my usual dunderheaded, absent minded style, I turned into the room below mine by mis-

"Thinking, of course, that I was in my own room I was dumbfounded at its appearance, with trunks piled up in the corser and ladies' dresses hanging in the open closet. A low, sweet female voice struck on my ear as I stood there amazed.

"There, baby,' it said, 'is papa,' and before I could turn, her arms were about my neck. Then she saw what had happened and accepted my apology, though not very graciously at first.

"We are good friends now, I am glad to say, and laughed over the accident this morning."—New York Press.

"I asked," said the landlord, "which way are you traveling?"

"Have I paid you my bill?" "Do I owe you anything more?"

"Well, I'm going just where I please; do you understand?"
"Yes."

"Yes."

The landlord was somewhat excited, and if: Land" h drove off; but to his surprise, in a few minutes and one of his servants to inquire which of the forks of the roat he should take.

RESULVED. That the question of a sufficient supply of circulating medium to maintain a permanent range of the price of labor and property is the most imperiant political question awaiting solution by the American people.

That a diminishing quantity of money reduces the price of labor and property, enriches the creditor, impoveriabes the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

That the present floated system of the United Sts es, which increases or diminishes the circulating medium at the pleasure of the manipulators of the national lear's, without regard to the increase of population or the wants of the people, and which recognizes gold alone as the standard of value, and places in the hands of the Treasury Department all the revenue of the Government to peculate with in bonds and loan to the nation of banks without interest, is cubarrive of the rights of the people, oppressive, unjust and should be repudiated. That a fluencial policy whereby both gold and silv r shall form the basis of irculation, whether the money used by the people be coin, or coin certificates redeemable in coin, or both, as convenience may require, is imperatively demanded.

That the attenpt to substitute rational bank notes, costing the Government millions of dollars annually, for free allver, costing nothing, is an outrage up r the recople; that the money ring or iroust, wich has usurped the sovereign power of the Government to issue money, and which has required the revenues of the Government for private speculation, shocks the moral sense of the people and destroys respect tor gove nment and law We demand that the ring or irous be destroyed and equal rights be reatored to all the people.

The Ovation to Blaine,

The ovation to Mr. Blaine was sorrowful spectacle to the Mugwamps who so fondly assert that by them he has been overthrown. No other private citizen of the United States, excepting General Grant. has ever been so honored, and for no other living American would such a demonstration be made. With the incisiveness which is peculiar to him, Mr. Blaine summoned up the issue of the campaign in one brief and forcible sentence: "It is the long looked for occasion upon which the cheaper labor and cheaper fabrics of the Old World expect to invade the New World and lower the wages of the American workingmen to the European standard." As he well and truly said, the decision of this question so momentous to the workingmen themselves is in their own hands. "The appeal lies to him; it comes to his door and asks him whether, with the great power of franchise and the great majority he possesses in his own hands, he is willing for himself and his assochildren's children.

utterances during the present campaign. They are on record as declaring that they would support a sincere civil service reformer as against as sincere tariff reformer. because civil service reform is in the hands of the President and Several Hundred Lives Lost by tariff reform is not. Then come the civil service commissioners and societies throughout the nation and after scoring Mr. Cleveland in no tender way for his abuse of esting details of the great volcanic power and violation of pledges, eruption at Bandalzan on July declare for General Harrison and 15th, of which only meager details prove by his acts as well as by his words, his sincerity in behalf of mail. their cherished work. This leaves the Mugwumps in an exceedingly perspiring and uncomfortable position. Not frank enough to admit error, they are yet to clever to stultify themselves upon the subject, and they are reduced to an almost pitiful silence. In other quarters, however, are found many bold enough to speak, and Harrison and Morton clubs, composing of formor Democrats, are being organized the country over.

Betrayed by Their Allies.

Rome, August 14.-An official dispatch from Massowah says: Three hundred and fifty auxiliary troops under command of Italian officers have been destroyed by the Abyssinians. The killed included all the officers. An attack was being made by the auxiliaries upon Saganati The catastrophe is due to treachery on the part of the native allies, who joined the enemy during the fighting.

Cuba and the United States.

BLAINE.

Trim-His Plan-

New York, August 14.-Everybody who has heard Mr. Blaine talk, either publicly or privately, since his return from Europe, is impressed with the belief that he point on the Pacific Coast for 50 cents has come back full of fight. The conservative habit of speech which he assumed in the campaign of 1884 has been laid aside and he talks like the Blaine of former years, ap-parently uttering the first thought that occurs to him and sending it home with all of the force at his command. Joe Manley himself notices this revival of Blaine's pugnacious and aggressive spirit and is delighted to see it. As to this campaign, Blaine is full of one idea, the preservation of the tariff for the preservation of the tariff for protection, and that idea will be expanded and enforced in every speech that he will make. He is loaded to the guards with facts and figures collected while abroad as to the condition of the workingmen of other countries, and can hardly restrain his impatience to lay them before an American audience. The effect of the tariff on wages will be the text of all his utterances.

be the text of all his utterances. He is going to speak wherever the National Committee believes his services are needed, but as at present advised he is not lisely to go farther west than Indiana and that far not soon. The Pacific Coast he regards as safe for the solid Republican electoral vote, and so far he has shown no inclination to listen to the preprint invitation. to listen to the urgent invitation that he receives from that part of the country.

BLAINE'S DEPARTURE. NEW YORK, August 14.-A great crowd assembled at the Grand Central depot this morning to witness the departure of Blaine and willing for himself and his associates, his children and his children's children to take that fatal step, at the bidding of an American Congress and an American President, who are governed by that element which sought to destroy this nation." These are words weighty with meaning for the laborer, the artisan, and the mechanic; for as they decide to cast their vote, do they determine the future of themselves and their children's children.

party for Maine. Blaine left the hotel about 10:30 and rode to the depot accompanied by Walker Blaine and Dougherty of Tennessee, one of the Secretaries of the National Campaign Committee. The party arrived at the station a short time before 11 o'clock, at which time the train started. As Blaine stepped from the carriage he was greeted with loud cheers, and was recorted through the crowd and waiting-room by two policemen. Blaine was met in the depot by ex-Collector Robertson and Chairman Pool of the Reception Committee. He entered a party for Maine. Blaine left the ception Committee. The eruption occurred on July 15th and in an hour over 500 per 15th and in an hour over 500 per sons were killed, about 1,000 injured, while over 2,000 were homeless and deatitute fugitives, their houses and lands ruined, and their families left without means of support. The accounts, which are mainly from native correspondents, show that the cruption was one of the most destructive in modern times, as well as one of the most peculiar.

times, as well as one of the most peculiar.

Five villages were overwhelmed with ashes, mud and stones, and were buried from seven to twenty feet. The eruption was caused by pent-up gas, which tore away one side of the mountain and completely changed the face of the country.

The loss of life was the more The loss of life was the more severe as the nearest village to the volcano was a favorite health resort, noted for its hot springs. The river Nazare was dammed by ashes and overflowed its banks, thus adding to the general desolation.

FRENCH AFFAIRS.

Paris, August 13,-While General Boulanger was driving in an open carriage at Saint Jean d'Argely to-day Prof. Perrin fired five shots at him from a revolver. M. Ratapan, a friend of the General, rushed forward and managed to turn the weapon aside. The result was that Ratapan himself received a bullet in the back of the head, but the wound is not serious. Two peasants were also wounded. General Boulanger was not touched. Prof. Perrin is a friend of Mayor Lair, the candidate nominated by Lair, the candidate nominated by the Opportunists in opposition to Boulanger. The affair occurred at the hight of a pitched battle be-tween the rival political parties. When the gendarmes charged Count Dillon received a blow on the head from a stick and other Boulangerists were roughly handled. It is not certain that Perrin intended to aim at Boulanger.

General Boulanger returned from Paris last night. After an examination the magistrate of St. Jean d'Argely ordered the release of Perrin, charged with an attempt to shoot General Boulanger. It is stated that Perrin was knocked down by a partisan of General Boulanger and that he fired at his assailant, but in self defense, not at Boulanger. Many partici-pants in the fight were arrested.

CUBAN ASSASSINATIONS.

Members of a Social Organization Rilled While is an Omnibus.

HAVANA, August 14 .- At Santiago de las Vegas, ten miles from here, the Casino Espanol gave a ball about a month ago that proved a failure. The following week the Centro de Recreo, another organization, gave a ball successfully. Both organizations have been friendly until recently. A personal spite arose between members of the Casino, which is entirely Spanish, and Francis Marin, one of the directors of the Centro de Recreo, which is entirely Cuban. The Casino members ascribed the fallure of their ball to the machinations of their rivals, members of which had attended the ball. Friday night an omnibus, conveying members of the latter party, was fired into on the way to a ball. The driver and three others were illed and forestern was designed. killed and fourteen wounded, four fatally.

Without Regard to Party. WASHINGTON, August 14 .- Four members of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, to-day discussed the bill to give effect to the Chinese treaty, already passed the Senate. In the absence of a quorum, they did not attempt to take any action, but the tone of the discussion showed that all the members present, without regard to party, favor a speedy report to the House.

Hitt, a member of the committee, who has beretofore occupied a very conservative position in the matter of anti-Chinese legislation, to-day expressed himself satisfied that the pending bill meets all the present requirements of the situation.

All passed in less than a generation; to much less that the men who were prominent actors then are, many of them, still in active life. Beginning with 1861 and stopping in 1885 there is nothing like the history included in these twenty-four years in all the archives of the ages; the struggle, the despair, the resurrection and restoration of a nation. But we are told that it is ungenerous, if not unmanly, to reawaken all that story of the past, that we are now a united, happy and prosperous people. The animosities of the war have remember, and that is, that the theory of government on which was prepared the C afederate Constitution, not only survives in all things, except upon the question of human slavery, but that it is the force which to-day rules the administration of the Government of this country. Would the Nation have accepted that rule in any of the years from 1861 to 1880? Had it been in force between 1865 and 1870 would any part of our national debt have been paid? Congressinan Tom Reed points to the significant fact in the North American Review that since the time Mr. Randall was defeated as Speaker of the House, not one con-servative Democrat who believes in limited protection has been given a place on the Ways and Means Committee, that committee which has the shaping of the financial legislation of the country. It has been turned over to such free traders as Mills and Breckinridge. Thus the great States where the work goes on and from which the taxes are collected are all ignored, and the direction of the dnances are turned over to the men who made so dismal a failure of the who made so dismail a failure of the dnances and the theory of national finance in the Congress of the Confed-eracy. A playground—oft with clouded sites

That o'er the rosebuds weep.
Where little troubles take the weight
Of sorrow far more deep.
There loved toys break in tlay hands—
Sad symbols of the time
Then hope shall cheat, and joys depart in life's aweet passing prime.

A hattlefield where forces meet,
And mesen houts contend.

The truces all so short, they seem
With the wild strife to blend:

With whom is victory?

A graveyard, where on every side
Pale monuments urise.

How van is all we prize.
A graveyard filled by memory.
Where phantoms lightly tread.

JAPANESE BABIES.

the Aubstitute for Whipping in Their Far-Away Country.

The babies in Japan have sparkling eyes and fruny little tufts of hair; they look so quaint and old-fashioned, exactly o doll babies that are sent ove here to America, says a writer in St.

Now, in our country very goung bables are apt to put everything in their mouths; a button or a pin, or anything, goes straight to the little rosy wide-open mouth, and the nurse or mamma must always watch and take great care that baby does not swallow something dan-

But in Japan they put the small babies right down in the sand by the door of the house, or on the floor, but I never saw them attempt to put anything in their mouths unless they were told to do so, and no one seemed to be anxious about

When little boys or girls in Japan are naughty and disobedient, they must be numbed, of course; but the punishment is very strange. There are very small pieces of rice pa-per called moxa, and these are lighted with a match and then put, upon the fin-cer or hand or arm of the naughty child, and they burn a spot on the tender skin that hurts very, very much. The child screams with the pain, and the red hot mora sticks to the skin for a moment or two, and then goes out; but the smarting burn reminds the little child of his fault. I do not like these moxas. I think it is a cruel punishment. But perhaps it is better than a whipping. Only I wish lit-tle children never had to be punished.

FOOD OF THE PRIMITIVE MAN.

Showing Arguments for and against the Theories of Vegetarians.

Primitive man, wherever he was first cast, whether in one centre or in more than one, must of necessity have found als food in the plant world. We cannot magine him commencing his career learned in the art of hunting, killing and cooking the lower animals for food.

Many infer from this circumstance that he argument in favor of vegetarian prac-tice is sopied direct from nature, signed and delivered by her.

and delivered by her.

Not quite so fast. There is one interrosing barrier to the free acceptance of regetarian deed and act of conveyance of food from nature to man. Nature, herself, of her own right royal will, makes for animals, herbivorous and carnivorous, one distinctive animal food; a secretion from the living animal organism, a fluid which is a standard food—meatand drink in one-the fluid known under the name

Against absolute vegetarianism, then, we may fairly set up one exception, de-rived from nature as the unerring guide. On observing the habits of animals we alscover another natural fact. We find that animals of quite different natures, respect to primitive selection of food, ossess the power of changing their nodes of feeding and of passing over as twere, from one class to another.

This change is distinct but limited, and we must accept it with all its extension on the other.

The fruit-eating ape can be taught un-ler privation to subsist on animal diet; a log can, I believe, be taught to subsist on .ible to teach a sheep to eat flesh as it would be to make a hon feed on grass.— Contemporary Review.

After the wedding, and when they had returned from the honeymoon, the bride found that she had no immediate use for he it the silverware she possessed, especially as for the time they were to live in her mother's house. So she consigned some of it to the care of a bank in town. Lee fruit spoons all went to the vault.

A few months later she received an invitation to attend a wedding of a school-mate in a neighboring town. She knew

All at once the idea came into her head that she had a great superfluity of fruit sproons. Why should she not send some of them to her schoolmate for a present? There seemed to be no objection, so she sent the butler down to the bank with sent the butler down to the bank with orders to pick out a case of spoons. The butler ful...led his mission. None of the presents were ticketed, so that it was a orether impossible to tell from whom the particular set of spoons had come.

The rooms traveled once more to a hymeneal altar, and the lady who sent them heard nothing about them for several days. Then she received the following letter: DEAR MADAME: I am very grateful to

There is no doubt that one of the most useful qualifications of an orator is a good voice. Burke failed in the House through lack of it, while William Pitt, through the possession of it, was a rulez there at the age of M.

Mr. Lecky says that O'Connell's voice, rising with an easy and melodious swell, filled the largest building and tramphed over the widest tumult, while nt the same time it conveyed every infaction of feeling with the most delicate flexibility.

The great majority of celebrated orators have been aided by the presession of a good voice. Webster's voice, on the occasion of his reply to Senator Lickinson, had such an effect that one of his listeners felt all the night afterward as if a heavy cannonade had been resounding in his ears.

Garrick used to say that he would give a hundred guiness if he could say "Oh!" as Whitefield did. Mr. Gladstone's vo ce has the music and the resonance of a silver trumpet.
